The Meaning of Academic Dress

Anyone attending an academic function in the United States who is familiar with gowns, hoods and mortarboard caps can readily distinguish the holders of Associate, Bachelor, Master and Doctor's degrees. The university or college from which each degree was obtained can also be recognized.

Academic dress originated in the oldest universities and colleges. In 14th century England, for instance, the statutes of most colleges and universities forbade "excess in apparel" and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. Floor length gowns were also worn for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. The tailoring of gowns was strictly governed. In the early days of Oxford, any tailor who departed from the authorized design of the gown, "even by a nail's breadth," was to be punished by the ViceChancellor of the university or college.

There are four basic kinds of degrees awarded by colleges and universities: the Associate's, the Bachelor's, the Master's, and the Doctor's. The Associate's degree, awarded by many colleges and most junior colleges, signifies completion of two years of specific work.

The Gowns: Most academic gowns are black. The cut of the robe and sleeves, as well as the trimmings, indicate various academic degrees. No trimmings are permitted on the gowns for the Associate, Bachelor, or Master's degrees. However, the Doctor's gown has a front facing of black velvet and three bars of the same black velvet across the sleeves.

The Hoods: Hoods fasten around the neck, drape over the shoulder, and fall down the back. Historically, they seem to have had three uses: (1) as a head covering, (2) as a cape, and (3) as a bag to collect alms—most medieval scholars were quite poor. The hood was also used as a receptacle for carrying books and other personal items. On the hood, the color of the silk lining indicates the school that conferred the degree. No hoods are worn by Associate or Bachelor degree holders; it is worn only by Master's and Doctor's. On the Doctor's hoods there is a fiveinchwide edging of velvet, the color of which indicates the field of study and of academic preparation.

The Mortarboard Caps: There is no general rule for the position of the tassel on a mortarboard. However, numerous institutions have adopted the practice, during commencement exercises, of requiring candidates for degrees to wear the tassels on the right front side before degrees are conferred and to shift them to the left side at the moment the degrees are awarded. This custom replaces individual hooding which was practiced many years ago.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. Kate Clark

Kate Clark has been an educator for 37 years, having taught students from preschool age to graduate level. She has taught English at Irvine Valley College full-time since 1989 and was a part-time instructor for several years prior to that. She directed the campus' Honors Program, was an advisor for several student clubs, and served on numerous campus and district committees before being elected as IVC's local academic senate president. She was subsequently elected to the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate for California Community Colleges and has served as a South Representative, Secretary, Vice-President, and now serves California's 57,000 faculty as their Academic Senate President.

Professor Clark received a degree in secondary education from the University of Nebraska and completed her Masters in English and her Ph.D. studies at the University of California, Irvine. Upon moving to Michigan, she was first a director of a preschool and active in civic and child-centered activities, and then administered and taught in the University of Michigan's Freshman Composition program, training and supervising the English Department's teaching assistants. Upon returning to California, she served as a lecturer in children's literature at CSU Fullerton and for six years as a lecturer and coordinator of UCI's Subject A and Humanities Core courses prior to coming to IVC where she nourished her intersegmental connections, her experiences with assessment and testing, and her interest in English competency and literacy.

Throughout her years here in California, she has been a weekly volunteer in a local elementary school as an expression of her commitment to learners of all ages.

Kate's home is in Laguna Beach with her husband Michael. She has two grown sons and spends her leisure time reading, traveling abroad, and hiking throughout scenic California.

Associate in Humane Arts Degree Recipient

Dr. Otto Roemmich

Dr. Otto Roemmich brings outstanding leadership and high achievement to every phase of life. Since retiring to Lake San Marcos (LSM) in 1992 along with his wife, Ann, he has bestowed his energies on Palomar College as President and Member of the Board for the LSM Friends of Palomar College. Dr. Roemmich was a founder of their Golf Tournament and Jazz Concerts that benefit Palomar College student scholarships with funds raised.

He has provided leadership in LSM for Community and Homeowners Associations, while serving the American Association of Retired Persons and the California Retired Teachers Association. Active in both golf and tennis, he has participated in the San Diego Senior Olympics for the past decade, and will go to Pittsburg in June to play tennis in the National/International Senior Olympics.

Dr. Roemmich was born and raised in North Dakota, where he earned a B.A. in history at Jamestown College. He taught high school there before entering the U.S. Navy. Following his Navy service he restarted his education career as a high school teacher and administrator in California. He entered the Claremont Graduate School where he earned a degree in International Relations, and received an Ed.D. from the University of Southern California with a major in Higher Education Administration.

Dr. Roemmich's distinguished career in community college education includes serving as Superintendent/President and as Chancellor of the San Jose Community College District. He is highly regarded as an Interim Chancellor who has provided a steady hand for districts in transitional searches for new leadership. He has served the Seattle Community College District, Rialto Unified School District, Solano County Community College District, San Bernardino Community College District, Desert College, Chaffey College, and Marin Community College District. Dr. Roemmich also has served on the California Community College Association Board of Directors, the State Chancellor's Advisory Committee for the California Community College System, and the President's Academy of the National Association of Community Colleges.

Dedication

This commencement program is dedicated to and honors those who have invested many years of valued service to Palomar College and who are retiring this year.
