PEACEBUILDING

IN LITERATURE, FILM, AND ART

In this class, we will explore a range of literature, film, and art from around the world that engages in peacebuilding strategies, including preventative measures, nonviolent transformation, reconciliation, healing, and environmental justice. We will also examine peacebuilding philosophies and practices among diverse communities and their relevance for building a more just and sustainable world in the 21st century.

This course is transferable to UC/CSU systems. Level 200+ literature courses also satisfy Area 2 for IGETC and Area C for CSU General Education.
