

States Subject to AB 1887's Travel Prohibition

Assembly Bill No. 1887 is a California law that restricts state agencies from requiring employees to travel to any state that has enacted a law that discriminates on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identify, or gender expression. The law also prohibits state-funded and state-sponsored travel to states on the list. The restrictions apply to all Palomar employees, and officers, as well as non-employee travelers, including students.
