THE PALOMAR COLLEGE RETIREES' ASSOCIATION PACER

The following pages of the PACER show the great additions to the campus. The photos were taken by Bob Larson before the Christmas holidays. A great deal has been completed on these buildings. We have printed them here for archival purposes for our members.

A NEW FACE FOR PALOMAR COLLEGE FOR A NEW DECADE

These buildings were built from a $694 million local bond measure that the voters passed in November 2006. Additional state aid will complete the effort.

The Multidisciplinary Instructional Building is scheduled to open in 2011.

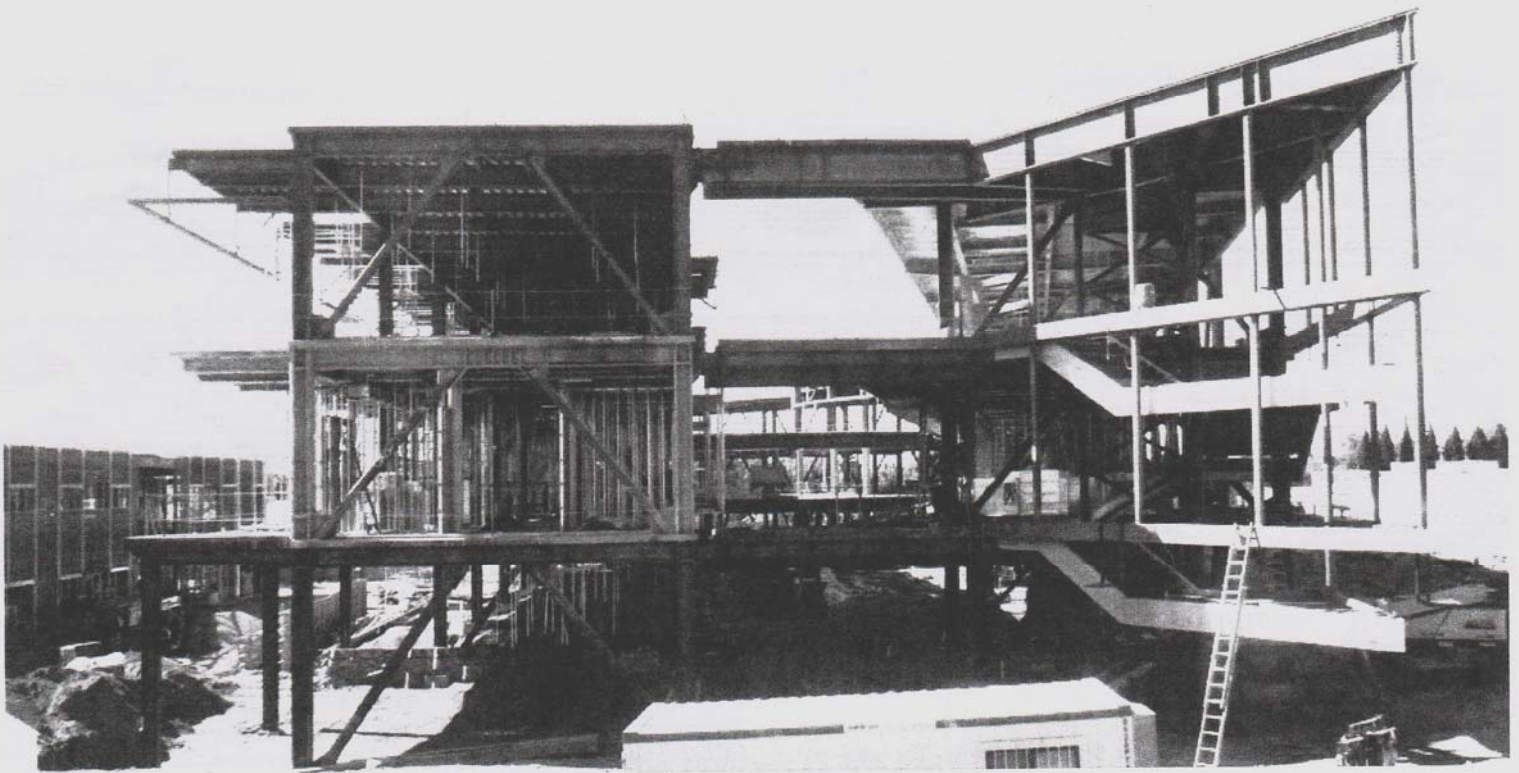

The building will be three stories with 50 classrooms and labs, 105 offices and four meeting rooms. American Indian studies, business, computer sciences behavioral sciences, economics, history, political science and multicultural studies will be housed in the building.

The Health Science building will house nursing and dental assisting programs the building is scheduled to open by March and open next fall.

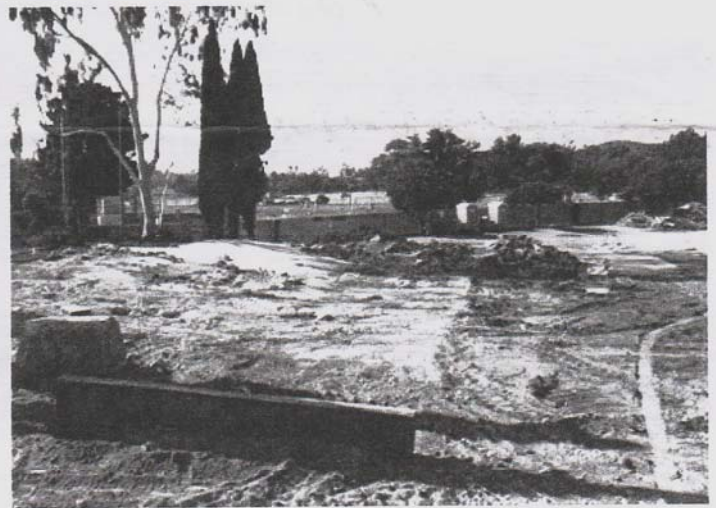

The Industrial Technology building is scheduled to begin construction this month
